Hancock County School Board approves $8.5 million budget

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Hancock County School Board approved an $8.5 million budget Monday, reflecting a 1.25 percent increase over the 1985-86 school year budget.

Bookkeeper Lynell Ladner met with the board which had been studying budget documents for several days prior to the meeting. She told the board in spite of the anticipated decrease of income for the coming year, expenditures had increased 13 percent.

Ladner explained the income decrease can be credited to "one-time only" sources of income received in the 85-86 school year.

These included $80,000 from timber sales, $596,350 for insurance adjustments and $272,350 derived from a loan to purchase buses.

"This totals nearly a million dollars of income that we will not be receiving this year," Ladner said.

However some of these funds are included in the $2.1 million beginning cash balance in the budget.

Major planned expenditures are $150,000 for buses, $400,000 for construction at Gulfview and $115,000 for computers.

Also included in the budget is a bonus program for teachers who do not miss any days of school.

In the bonus program any teacher who did not miss a single day of school would be eligible for a $200 bonus.

The board agreed to the program and Randolph said the program would be put into effect following state approval.

The $486 pay raise recently approved by the board does not effect total budget figures. The increase is same amount the district has reduced its insurance premiums paid per teacher.

With the pay raise the local supplement is now $1,286. Adding this to state mandated salaries, a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree will be paid $16,161.

16th SECTION LEASES
Also at the meeting the board approved a list of Sixteenth Section land leases to be renegotiated.

The board had previously postponed the approval of this list for several weeks.

Board Member Lennette Necaize moved to approve the leases with the exception of a one held by Board Member Tommy Shaw.

Her motion stated Shaw's lease should be held until the board received an attorney general's opinion on whether it may be renegotiated.

The list of pre-1978 leases to be renegotiated did not include the leaseholders' names.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph said he did not include the names so board members could review the list without prejudice.

"I wanted the board members to make judgments on the leases based on the land itself and amount being charged for its use," Randolph said.

The superintendent said the procedure of withholding leaseholders names until after renegotiation is complete is recommended by the State Department of Education.

Randolph noted he hopes to complete renegotiation of some 53 leases originally signed prior to 1978 within 30 days.

He said at that time details of the leases, including leaseholders names, parcel size and description, and annual rental will be made public.

Names and terms for all 16th Section leases are available to the public from the Mississippi Secretary of State's Office in Jackson.

Also at Monday's meeting, recommendations by Randolph for personnel transfers, denied at a previous board meeting, were tabled until a "full board" could be present.

The recommendations include transferring Charles B. Murphy Elementary School Principal Philip Terrell to Hancock North Central and Donald Hillman to the central office as Assistant Superintendent in Charge of Operations.

Later in the meeting, Necaize made a motion that the board either conduct all or none of its business with a full board.

"I don't think we should continue to delay controversial decisions until Monvel Cuevas is here," she said.

Board President Billie Faye Lyons said she didn't believe there were that many decisions that had been delayed for that purpose.

Most recent postponement of decisions until Cuevas was at a meeting include a controversial Sixteenth Section land lease and personnel recommendations.

Attendance records since January 1986 reveal Cuevas has attended only seven of the past 23 school board meetings.

IN other business the board:
—Voted to have all meetings of the board recorded.

—Approved the school food claims docket for June 1986.

—Approved the district's claims docket for June.

—Approved a $5,024 payment for Fred Wagner for professional services on the two-classroom construction project.

—Approved a cancellation of a 16th section parcel of land in Sect. 16-6-14.

—Approved a request to lease five acres in Sect. 16-6-14 to Harriet Sanders for $297 per year for 25 years.

Shuttle engine testing 'back on track' at NSTL

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
With the apparent success of Wednesday morning's space shuttle engine test, National Space Technology Laboratories is "back on track."

The 250-second test which went as planned was significant in that this is really the first test for more than two seconds since the Challenger accident, said Lisa Monti, National Space and Aeronautics Administration spokesman.

"We hope by the end of the summer to be back on the routine of several tests a month," she added.

Monti added that no date had been set for the next test which will be a flight duration test for approximately 500 seconds.

The engine being tested at NSTL at this time is a flight engine from the Space Shuttle Columbia. This engine was used on the Columbia's first five missions.

Supervisors plan consolidation meeting

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has proposed two special meetings on consolidation of services.

The board has proposed consolidation of law enforcement services for Waveland, Bay St. Louis and Hancock County and has called for a discussion meeting of city and county officials, city police chiefs and Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

The board has also called for a meeting to discuss consolidation of school-related services including transportation and purchasing for the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District and Hancock County School District.

Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner called Wednesday for consideration of consolidating law enforcement as a cost-cutting measure.

Ladner said the mayors of Bay St. Louis and Waveland had recently indicated an interest in consolidating at least the radio communications related to law enforcement.

"We know we are facing cutbacks and I think considering this is one good way we can prepare for them," Ladner said.

Board President and Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar called for the meeting on consolidation of schools or school-related services.

"Having a meeting to discuss it is a good idea, but I don't think we're ready to endorse consolidation of schools," Ladner said.

Kellar said both school boards have been working toward setting up such a meeting.

The supervisors approved arranging both discussion meetings, which have been tentatively scheduled for inclusion in the July 30 board meeting.

Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph said Wednesday afternoon that he is interested in the county proposal.

Randolph said he would like to see the county help with such a project.

"I'd be glad to talk to them about coordination of services. What I'm interested in is achieving the same cost savings without a full consolidation of school districts," Randolph said.

"Our school district and the Bay school district differ in philosophy. I don't believe a full consolidation of schools would work here," he added.

tion spokesman.

"We hope by the end of the summer to be back on the routine of several tests a month," she added.

Monti added that no date had been set for the next test which will be a flight duration test for approximately 500 seconds.

The engine being tested at NSTL at this time is a flight engine from the Space Shuttle Columbia. This engine was used on the Columbia's first five missions.

Supervisors plan consolidation meeting

"I'm interested in coordinating services like purchasing and some of the personnel positions. We could have one special education director, one cafeteria supervisor and one bus barn, for example. That sort of consolidation would be beneficial for both districts."

Randolph said he is also interested in working with consolidation of services on a larger scale.

He said he met Tuesday in Gulfport with members of the Gulf Coast Superintendents' Association to discuss setting up a centralized bidding structure and a purchasing warehouse for all coastal districts.

He said counties may eventually be asked to assist with that project as well.

Bay Superintendent Roger D. Oge said he is "interested in pursuing any and all cooperative endeavors that will better serve the students in both districts."

Oge, who took office July 1, said he has not had enough time to study full consolidation.

"There has been so much talk about different avenues of cooperative endeavor and it will be refreshing if we can pursue some of these avenues," he added.

He said he has discussed some broad-based purchasing with Randolph and hopes to put some of those ideas forward if the meeting with the supervisors can be arranged.

Amendment provides tax break

BY DENA BISNETTE
Some of the state's homeowners will have a property tax break next year but may end up paying more taxes elsewhere.

According to Hancock County Tax Assessor and Collector Eddie Murtagh, a state constitutional amendment approved by voters in the June 3 election will reduce taxes on one particular class of residential property from 15 percent to 10 percent of real value.

Implementation of the amendment was delayed until July 10 when the election results were certified by the U.S. Department of Justice and a court injunction on implementation was dropped, Murtagh said.

He added that he had learned that the tax break had become effective on Friday but did not receive official notification until Monday.

Murtagh and other tax assessors and collectors were notified through a letter from State Attorney General Edwin Lloyd Pittman. The letter included a copy of a July 10 opinion signed by Special Assistant Attorney General L. Pauline Shuler.

The opinion explained that the new amendment has taken effect and tax assessors should identify the property covered in its guidelines.

The county's real and personal property tax roles were originally scheduled to be approved by the county boards of supervisors on July 7. However, Murtagh had applied for a 15-day extension in anticipation of the Justice Department decision.

The break applies only to single family residences that are classified as owner-occupied, Murtagh explained.

"I don't know yet how much loss of tax revenue this means to the county. We have our computers working on that now but we probably won't know until next week," he added.

Murtagh said his staff must determine who is eligible for the tax break. Homestead exemption eligibility does not affect eligibility for the tax break.

He said he may have to recommend that the county's millage be raised if there is enough revenue loss to justify doing so.

However, he said he expects most of the loss to be made up in taxes on automobile tags, which are fixed at 30 percent, and utilities, also currently 30 percent. The utility tax increases are usually passed on to consumers in the form of rate hikes.

Repairs underway on traffic lights

BY DENA BISNETTE
A problem with traffic lights at the intersection of Highway 603 and US-90 Tuesday night caused confusion for motorists.

According to State Highway Department Maintenance Supervisor Thomas Moody, repairs were underway Wednesday and were expected to be completed today.

Moody said the light system at that particular intersection has been a consistent problem for the Highway Department in the past and malfunctions "more often than any other light system in the Bay St. Louis area."

The system is one of the department's older systems and last malfunctioned during the Fourth of July weekend.

Moody said the light apparently malfunctioned at about 4 p.m. Tuesday and all of the red, yellow and green lights on the 603-US-90 intersection lit simultaneously.

"We don't really know the cause of this latest problem. The whole system just went out on us. It is the first time I have ever seen this type thing, with all three colors shining at once," Moody explained.

He checked the light himself Tuesday night at about 10:30 p.m. before turning it over to department electricians and found that the control device had "apparently melted and fused an automatic control device together."

"That's very unusual. It would take a great amount of heat to do that," Moody added.

He said that the light was temporarily left with yellow flashers working on US-90 and red flashers on 603 in order to allow Waveland police officers directing traffic to go back to other duties.

"This light has given us a lot of problems in the past several months and has certainly put a burden on the police department, but they have worked real well with us."

"If no one had been directing traffic during that confusing situation Tuesday night, I am sure there would have been lots of accidents," Waveland Patrolman B.J. Ladner said Tuesday night he had been at the corner since about 5 p.m.

"This happens all the time out here. It's a bad place for this kind of thing," Ladner said. "It's a dangerous corner anyway."

He said motorists appeared confused by the lights and sometimes showed difficulty in understanding the directions the policemen gave with their flashlights.

Ladner, Michael Prendergast and Ronald Hode used flashlights to direct the traffic after dark.

Moody said he had talked to the highway department's district engineer, Joe Davis, and expects to hear from him within two to three weeks regarding possible replacement of the light system.

Moody said Davis is planning a study on the light, since the control device has malfunctioned and been replaced several times without lasting results.

He added that there is speculation that the humidity in the area may have affected the system.

"The dampness here on the Gulf Coast seems to take a worse toll on some of the lights than on others," he explained. "We see it particularly in some of the older systems and those lights at 90 and 603 are fairly old now. They have been through hurricanes and all sorts of bad weather."

FORTY KNOTS—The third Landing Craft, Air Cushion (LCAC) built for the U.S. Navy by the New Orleans Operations of Bell Aerospace Textron, Division of Tex-

RECORD SPEED—Following the successful voyage from New Orleans to Panama City, Fla., LCAC-3 was accepted by the U.S. Navy. Participating in a brief ceremony at the Naval Coastal Systems Center on June 9 are, from left, J. R. Stewart, director of production acceptance and delivery, Bell Aerospace Textron, New Orleans Operations; Lt. U. H. (Jack) Rowley, USN LCAC project officer; W. F. Beverly, Bell executive director, Test and Training; and Cmdr. W. P. Fini, USN commanding officer, Assault Craft Unit 5; and BMC R. Park, USN Assault Craft Unit 5.

Landing craft completes voyage at 40 knots

On June 6 the 42nd anniversary of the World War II invasion of Normandy, a major milestone event occurred in amphibious operations.

Landing Craft, Air Cushion (LCAC) number three traveled nonstop, from New Orleans, La. across the Gulf of Mexico to Panama

City, Fla. The average speed of the transit was "in excess of 40 knots."

The long open-sea voyage was completed flawlessly, and marked the longest single trip ever made by a U.S. air-cushion assault landing craft.

The craft made the transit using its onboard navigation capability for direction and positioning data and maneuvered well beyond the sight of land.

This event is an example of the U.S. Navy's new capabilities that are changing amphibious strategy and warfare.

The LCAC will make amphibious assault landings less dangerous for U.S. Marines and its speed and performance will give a task force commander a distinctive new edge in surprise and flexibility.

The LCAC is a high-speed, ship-to-shore, and over-the-beach amphibious landing craft that can transport equipment, personnel, and weapon systems, including the main battle tank, from ships through the surf zone, and across the beach to hard landing points beyond the shoreline.

The craft was piloted to Panama City by an LCAC delivery crew trained and qualified by Bell Aerospace Textron, the manufacturer.

County Agent's Notes

GARDEN CARE

The next two months are perhaps the busiest of the year for gardeners, a time to fill the freezer and jars. July and August can also leave your garden looking neglected unless you provide the necessary care.

Keep the garden watered during dry spells. Remember that your garden will need one to two inches of water each week. A mulch really pays off at this time of the year.

For fall harvest, July is the cutoff date for planting pumpkins for Halloween. As spring vegetables mature and are harvested, you can get additional space by removing the old plants and reworking the rows.

Continue to plant Southern peas and bush lima beans if you want more of these vegetables. Mid to late July is the time to set out tomato, eggplant and pepper plants for fall harvest.

You can prevent bird problems on tomatoes by harvesting before the fruit is fully ripe. This also reduces cracking problems. Continue to spray tomatoes for early blight, and sidedress tomato plants every four to six weeks.

Harvest your garden frequently to reduce losses to overmaturity. Large squash, cucumbers and okra left on plants reduce future harvest.

Keep weeds under control. They take up water and fertilizer, and will make seeds this year that will be back to bother you again next year.

The garden tabloid gives much more information about your summer and fall garden. It is available for the asking at the County Extension Office.

WATER CORRECTLY

You will also want to be sure to provide plenty of water to flowers, potted plants and shrubs in July and August.

Don't sprinkle the plants with just a little water. This encourages the roots to cluster near the soil surface, which endangers the plants during droughts.

Instead, thoroughly soak the soil once a week when there is no rain. In addition to watering, a thick layer of organic mulch such as pine straw, pine bark or rotted sawdust helps save soil moisture.

A three-to-five inch layer of mulch around flowers and in shrub beds helps hold soil moisture and cuts down on the need to water. The mulch also will help control weed problems in planting areas.

FORTY KNOTS—The third Landing Craft, Air Cushion (LCAC) built for the U.S. Navy by the New Orleans Operations of Bell Aerospace Textron, Division of Tex-

Landing craft completes voyage at 40 knots

On June 6 the 42nd anniversary of the World War II invasion of Normandy, a major milestone event occurred in amphibious operations. Landing Craft, Air Cushion (LCAC) number three traveled nonstop, from New Orleans, La. across the Gulf of Mexico to Panama

City, Fla. The average speed of the transit was "in excess of 40 knots." The long open-sea voyage was completed flawlessly, and marked the longest single trip ever made by a U.S. air-cushion assault landing craft.

The craft made the transit using its onboard navigation capability for direction and positioning data and maneuvered well beyond the sight of land.

This event is an example of the U.S. Navy's new capabilities that are changing amphibious strategy and warfare.

The LCAC will make amphibious assault landings less dangerous for U.S. Marines and its speed and performance will give a task force commander a distinctive new edge in surprise and flexibility.

The LCAC is a high-speed, ship-to-shore, and over-the-beach amphibious landing craft that can transport equipment, personnel, and weapon systems, including the main battle tank, from ships through the surf zone, and across the beach to hard landing points beyond the shoreline.

The craft was piloted to Panama City by an LCAC delivery crew trained and qualified by Bell Aerospace Textron, the manufacturer.

GARDEN CARE

The next two months are perhaps the busiest of the year for gardeners, a time to fill the freezer and jars. July and August can also leave your garden looking neglected unless you provide the necessary care.

Keep the garden watered during dry spells. Remember that your garden will need one to two inches of water each week. A mulch really pays off at this time of the year.

For fall harvest, July is the cutoff date for planting pumpkins for Halloween. As spring vegetables mature and are harvested, you can get additional space by removing the old plants and reworking the rows.

Continue to plant Southern peas and bush lima beans if you want more of these vegetables. Mid to late July is the time to set out tomato, eggplant and pepper plants for fall harvest.

You can prevent bird problems on tomatoes by harvesting before the fruit is fully ripe. This also reduces cracking problems. Continue to spray tomatoes for early blight, and sidedress tomato plants every four to six weeks.

Harvest your garden frequently to reduce losses to overmaturity. Large squash, cucumbers and okra left on plants reduce future harvest.

Keep weeds under control. They take up water and fertilizer, and will make seeds this year that will be back to bother you again next year.

The garden tabloid gives much more information about your summer and fall garden. It is available for the asking at the County Extension Office.

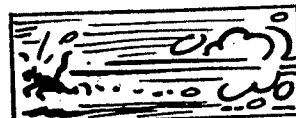

WATER CORRECTLY

You will also want to be sure to provide plenty of water to flowers, potted plants and shrubs in July and August.

Don't sprinkle the plants with just a little water. This encourages the roots to cluster near the soil surface, which endangers the plants during droughts.

Instead, thoroughly soak the soil once a week when there is no rain. In addition to watering, a thick layer of organic mulch such as pine straw, pine bark or rotted sawdust helps save soil moisture.

A three-to-five inch layer of mulch around flowers and in shrub beds helps hold soil moisture and cuts down on the need to water. The mulch also will help control weed problems in planting areas.

A big fund raiser sponsored by the St. Vincent de Paul Society is scheduled for Saturday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. at Coleman and Central avenues in Waveland.

As many of you know, the St. Vincent de Paul Society helps so many folks in need in our county.

The local organization offers so many services to area folks in need who are unable to obtain help.

We know the group's members are striving to provide more services, and as you know, this takes money.

The title of the event is 'Summerfest 86' and will offer food and drinks, arts and crafts, fiddling contest, and continuous live entertainment.

There will be a two-mile fun run Saturday in addition to a baby contest, ages infants to five years old.

Persons seeking further information may contact Bee Gallegos, 467-2176; or Jay Fleuriot, 467-7846.

In case of weather problems, Sunday has been set as rain day.

Don't forget the Annual Kids Fishing Rodeo sponsored by the Gulf Coast Sportsman's Club Saturday at the American Legion Memorial Pier.

Young fishermen and fisherwomen can register the day of the rodeo at the headquarters located at Beach Boulevard and Washington Street in Bay St. Louis.

Registration is free and all registrants will receive a free coke and hotdog.

The club has some nice trophies and prizes for the winners in several categories.

Remember, no stingrays or catfish will be accepted.

Registrations will close at 2 p.m. and the scales will close at 5 p.m.

Occasionally we hear about some odd things happening.

Hancock County Sheriff's Dispatcher Melba Necaize, who lives on Dummyline Road, told us Wednesday about lightning striking a pecan tree in her yard on Monday.

The odd thing is that it burned for two days.

The tree was toppled in Hurricane Camille, then trimmed back and then pushed up with a dozer.

The pecan tree came back with a nice shape Mrs. Necaize said, but now it looks like someone had set a fire to the top of the trunk where it had been trimmed back in addition to having many limbs broken.

We have seen trees which have been struck by lightning and have completely exploded into many small pieces, and we have seen many where the bark has been peeled down the trunk from top to bottom.

Recently there was a house set on fire from limbs of trees which were struck by lightning.

One thing is for certain, lightning can do many things, and we have had several bad isolated thunderstorms in recent weeks.

"We're fighting for your life."

Highway Patrol fills top slots

JACKSON—Two key appointments have been made in the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol with the naming of a new chief and assistant chief.

D. D. Cvitanovich, of Biloxi, has been appointed assistant commissioner and chief of patrol, and Donald L. O'Cain, of Magee, is assistant chief. Cvitanovich has been acting chief since June.

The positions, which came open with the retirement of George Saxon and Kenneth R. Dukes, carry the rank of colonel and lieutenant colonel, respectively.

In announcing the promotions, James L. Roberts Jr., commissioner of public safety, said the top five slots in the Highway Patrol were vacated when the one-time early retirement option was made available.

He said the chief and assistant chief positions are the only two of the five he intends to fill at this time.

A bill passed during the 1986 Regular Session of the Legislature allowed officers with 20 or more years service to retire, and resulted in 128 officers leaving the agency. More than 25 sworn vacancies existed in the Highway Patrol before the June 30 effective date of the 128 retirements.

Roberts said that Cvitanovich and O'Cain are "seasoned officers of patrol service and will be role models for our troopers."

"Between them they have performed almost half a century of public service for the people of Mississippi as officers of this agency. Their service records are impeccable," the commissioner added.

Cvitanovich, 53, has served as an assistant inspector in the Highway Patrol's Gulfport District since 1972. He attained the rank of sergeant with the United States Marine Corps prior to being commissioned in the Highway Patrol in 1961.

He is a graduate of the 99th Session of the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Va.

A graduate of Notre Dame High School in Biloxi, Cvitanovich attended Perkinson Junior College.

He and his wife, the former Mary

C. Hampton, daughter of Clyde Hampton of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Mary E. Hampton of Biloxi, are the parents of six children, Nicky, Deidra, Darrell Jr., Tina, Lena and Dorothy.

He is the son of the late Dominick and Philomena Serovich Cvitanovich.

The newly named chief and his family are members of St. Michael's Catholic Church. He is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Slavic Benevolent Association and the FBI National Association.

O'Cain, 44, is a former criminal investigator and more recently served as director of the Internal Affairs Office.

The Canton native is a graduate of Canton public schools, attended Holmes Junior College, and served with the Mississippi National Guard, 172nd military airlift group where he attained the rank of staff sergeant.

Upon completion of patrol cadet training in 1966, O'Cain patrolled in the Simpson County area. In 1980, he was named criminal investigator, a position he held for two years before being promoted to director of the Internal Affairs Office in 1982.

O'Cain is a graduate of the 36th Session of the LSU Law Enforcement Institute and has attended other law enforcement related classes. Among those include courses at the University of Texas, Brenau College in Gainesville, Ga., and International Association of Chiefs of Police sponsored seminars.

A member of the International Association of Auto Theft Investigators since 1980, O'Cain has served on the board of directors, and as first, second and third vice president of the organization.

He and his wife, the former Lynda Stringer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Stringer of Magee, have one daughter, Jacqueline Rene. O'Cain is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. O'Cain of Canton.

He and his family are members of Sharon Presbyterian Church. A deacon since 1972, O'Cain has served as treasurer and chairman of the board of deacons. He is a Master Mason with the Magee Lodge.

Eyes on Mississippi

by Bill Minor

JACKSON—Organized labor, already wounded by the state's nagging unemployment rate and the failure of the legislature once again to improve benefits for injured workers, was dealt another blow recently by Gov. Bill Allain.

In the shuffling that took place recently on the Mississippi Employment Security Commission, labor lost the only employee representative on the three-member body.

Allain replaced Mary Bryant, a communications worker and officer in the Mississippi political power broker in the old Jim Eastland organization.

Bryant's appointment on the Employment Security Commission during the Winter administration had been in fulfillment of labor's long-time contention that one of the three commissioners should come from organized labor ranks. Actually the law establishing the commission provides that one member should be an employee.

Significantly, none of the three present members of the commission is an employee. Besides Wilkinson, the commission now has attorney Hugh Gibson and oil distributor Carroll Hood as the other members.

How Wilkinson, considered one of the most influential behind-the-scenes operators in Jackson city politics, had weeded his way into Allain's favor is one of the more curious developments of the Allain administration.

Wilkinson, who always plays some key backstage role in governor's races, had backed the wrong horse in the 1983 Democratic primaries, but apparently became involved in helping Allain respond to the homosexual charges in the general election.

Still, Wilkinson was not regarded as an Allain insider, and reportedly lost a couple of bids for Allain patronage, among them the state bond attorneyship.

Wilkinson had served on the Employment Security Commission back in the Finch administration and wanted to be back on it. So when Mary Bryant's term was up, Allain booted her and gave the spot to Wilkinson.

There's a little behind the scenes story in that, Bryant was a leader in the CWA (Communications Workers of America), the strong union group of the AFL-CIO which had opposed a union endorsement of Allain in the 1983 primaries. Their fear of Allain was based on his attacks on the utilities while he was attorney general.

Evidently that didn't escape Allain's attention, despite the fact that Bryant and the CWA were very supportive of him when the homosexual charges were raised in the general election.

The AFL-CIO has not gone public with its hurt and anger over Allain removing Bryant from the commission or his not at least putting some other labor person in her place.

But labor is closely watching two appointments Allain will be making to the Mississippi Worker's Compensation Commission, the other state agency, along with Employment

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

In the United States today, more than 99 percent of all businesses are considered to be small businesses. In Mississippi alone, there are more than 40,000 small businesses.

Small businesses employ one-half of the workers in the national economy and produce three to four times as many new jobs, new products, and new services as large firms.

That's why small business development is so important to the nation and to Mississippi.

Recognizing the value of such enterprises, the State of Mississippi is offering a variety of services, including financial assistance, to encourage development and expansion of small business operations.

Mississippians contemplating the launching of small business enterprises, or considering expansion of existing small businesses, will want to become familiar with the various services offered through the state's Research and Development Center, the Department of Economic Development, the State Employment Security Commission, and federal agencies in the state which offer similar services.

Is the information about such services available to the small business owner/operator in one place, easily found and easily understood?

That's the good news.

The Mississippi Economic Council has published an inventory of small business assistance programs. The publication is entitled, "Small Business Services in Mississippi." It may be helpful to you.

Tax problem may merit special assistance from IRS

JACKSON — If it's been more than 10 weeks since a taxpayer filed Federal income tax return and still not received a refund; or if they have other unresolved tax problems, "do not panic - help is available."

For information on the status of refund, simply pick up the nearest push-button telephone and dial the IRS' toll-free Automated Refund Information number (1-800-554-4477).

An IRS operator will ask the caller to enter Social Security number, filing status and exact amount of refund expected.

After entering the information, the operator will either furnish a date the refund check will be mailed or if no information is available, refer caller to Income Tax Assistance, toll-free number (1-800-424-1040) for further help.

According to Tully Miller, district director, Internal Revenue Service, Jackson, refunds are sometimes delayed because of incorrect Social Security numbers, missing signatures, missing documents or other small problems.

Generally, the Atlanta Service Center will send the taxpayer a letter requesting the missing information or otherwise explaining what the taxpayer needs to do to receive the refund.

Miller said that, in prior years, for taxpayers who waited until the week of April 15 to file their returns, normal processing time was approximately 10-12 weeks.

This year, normal processing time averaged about eight weeks. "To date, we have processed 99% of the refunds due Mississippi taxpayers compared to last year's 74%, and the average dollar amount of refund increased from $648.23 to $697.75," he noted.

Miller added that although IRS is pleased with this year's successful filing season, especially the speed in processing returns and issuing refunds timely, no filing season is error free.

Regardless of how sensitive we are, experience has shown that there are instances where taxpayers have dealings with the IRS that are not promptly resolved. Furthermore, there are instances where taxpayers perceive that their problems do not receive the appropriate attention.

"If a taxpayer encounters difficulty in getting any tax matter resolved and has made at least two inquiries, and waited the normal processing time of 45-90 days, our Problem Resolution Office is available for immediate assistance," Miller stated.

For example, a taxpayer may have experienced problems in getting an address changed, securing a copy of a previously filed return, getting credit for a missing payment, or in being issued a Federal tax identification number.

The Problem Resolution Office was created to assure that all taxpayers have somewhere to turn when the system fails - someone who will step in and make sure that their problem is not lost or overlooked.

"Betty Weiss, of my staff, is our problem resolution officer (PRO)," Miller stated. "She will give personal attention to taxpayers, regardless of the complexity of the problem."

"If a case meets Problem Resolution criteria," Miller said, "the Problem Resolution PRO, Betty Weiss, will assign it to a 'special case worker'." The taxpayer will receive an acknowledgment letter or call within five days and every effort will be made to resolve the case within 30 days.

As a result of this year's successful filing season, the number of cases meeting Problem Resolution criteria has decreased. However, those taxpayers who are having problems in getting a tax matter resolved should dial the toll-free number (1-800-424-1040) and request assistance from Betty Weiss, the Jackson District PRO. They can also write to Betty at 100 W. Capitol Street, Suite 504, Jackson, Ms. 39269.

Mississippi meat packer agrees to $1,800 civil penalty

WASHINGTON—Gregory H. Mitchell, owner of Ole Salem Packing Co., Inc., at Picayune, has agreed to an $1,800 civil penalty and a cease and desist order for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

A USDA official said today Mitchell agreed to the penalties to settle charges of making slow payment for slaughter cattle bought at auction markets in Mississippi and Louisiana.

B.H. (Bill) Jones, head of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration, said Mitchell's payments ranged from one to four weeks' late for cattle purchased at auctions in Hattiesburg, Tylertown, and Poplarville, Miss., and Kentwood, La.

In agreeing to the penalties, Mitchell neither admitted nor denied the federal administrative charges filed by USDA in January under authority of the Packers and Stockyards (P+S) Act.

Meat packers are required under the P+S Act to pay promptly for livestock unless credit has been arranged in advance.

The cease and desist order, similar to a permanent injunction, was issued to insure future compliance with the P+S Act.

The P+S Act is an antitrust, fair trade practice and payment protection law. It is designed to maintain integrity in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat, and economic law and order in the marketplace.

Point of Law

Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q: What steps must a public housing project take to evict a tenant who has not paid his rent?

A: To evict a tenant for non-payment of rent, the law requires that a public housing project must give a tenant 14 days written notice, stating that the tenant's rent is overdue and must be paid. The notice must also state that the tenant is entitled to a grievance hearing on the question of overdue rent. If the tenant requests a hearing, the housing authority must provide a hearing and notify the tenant of the results of the hearing prior to beginning any eviction proceedings.

Q: Can a public housing tenant who is current in his rental payments be removed by a housing authority?

A: Although a private landlord can terminate a tenancy at the end of a lease or by giving proper notice, a public housing authority cannot terminate a tenancy unless good cause exists for the termination. A tenant can be evicted only if he has violated an important provision of the lease. In order to remove a tenant for violation of a lease, the public hearing authority must give the tenant thirty days notice, in writing, stating the reasons for termination of the tenancy. In addition, the notice must inform the tenant that he is entitled to a grievance hearing to determine whether he has violated the lease.

Magistrate dismisses suit against sheriff

A federal magistrate has dismissed a 1983 lawsuit filed by a former Hancock County Jail prisoner who alleged he didn't receive adequate medical care and medication while imprisoned.

James Conley filed a lawsuit against Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson after he suffered seizures in the county jail Oct. 8, 1982.

Conley alleged that during three days that he had seizures, two doctors at the prison refused to treat him.

Conley received treatment after being taken to a hospital, his lawsuit contends.

Conley also alleged that trustees at the prison could not read and write, and that he was in constant fear that they wouldn't give him his medicine properly.

But in orders filed Wednesday at federal court in Biloxi, U. S. Magistrate Britt Singletary ruled in favor of Peterson.

BATTLESHIPS RETURN TO DUTY—Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton in Pascagoula has been awarded a contract by the U.S. Navy to begin planning work for the reactivation and modernization of the battleship Wisconsin (BB-61). Wisconsin becomes the last of the four World War II Iowa Class battleships to come out of "mothballs" and return to active duty. Work on Wisconsin is scheduled to begin in late summer. The program will take approximately 25 months to complete and utilize about 2,000 employees from the Company's existing work force. In 1984, Ingalls reactivated and modernized USS Iowa (BB 61), redelivering the battleship ahead of an already accelerated Navy schedule. (Ingalls Shipbuilding Photo)

Bay St. Louis VFW Post, Auxiliary to sponsor POW-MIA observance Saturday

The Theodore S. Price Post And Auxiliary 3253, Veterans of Foreign Wars will sponsor a MIA-POW awareness program Saturday, July 19 at 11 a.m. at the post home, 343 Third Street, corner Washington.

The event will be held in recognition of POW/MIA Week from July 19 through 26.

"The public must be aware and is an integral element in overall U.S. government policy to resolve the issue," said Jeannie Garcia, auxiliary president.

"Groups such as ours must get involved and support the MIA/POW program because we are a concerned group and our primary factor is maintaining the vigil for our missing men and supporting efforts to resolve their fate," she added.

This continued support of all veteran organizations will achieve success in bringing these unique group of veterans home, said Garcia and Post Commander Charles Carver.

"We ask that all churches put an announcement in their bulletins and offer special prayers for the POW/MIA's," Carver added.

"We ask all business and government officials and all private citizens who fly the American flag to attach red or yellow ribbons to their flag poles in the manner of a battle streamer as a symbol of Freedom for POW/MIA Week," Garcia urges.

"On Sunday, July 17, we request ministers to include a prayer for the missing men in their services," Garcia said.

"We are asking the public to attend our program and take part in the ceremonies. As there are 2,400 Americans still missing or unaccounted for," she stated.

Local veteran groups taking part in the program which is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign War Post and Auxiliary 3253 include honor guards from Pearl River Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5174, Bayou Cadet Memorial 4808, Kiln Memorial 6285, and Biloxi Post 2434, Gulfport Post 2539, Pascagoula Post 3373, Picayune Post 3804, Long Beach Post 3937, Poplarville Post 4196, Gulfport Post 4526, Ocean Springs Post 5699, Pass Christian Post 5931, Biloxi Post 6731, Pascagoula Post 10024, American Legion Post and Auxiliary 139, Bay St. Louis, American Legion Post 77 Waveland Auxiliary, D.A.V. Chapter 50, Bay St. Louis.

"We are inviting all P.O.W.s and if families will send the names of those Missing In Action a special ceremony will be held for them," Garcia added.

All veterans organizations that attend are asked to bring 500 red, white, and blue balloons to be released.

Refreshments and food will be served. Lucille Boudreaux, publicity chairman for this program can be contacted at 467-4974.

The Post phone number is 467-9136. "We will be glad to help and assist you in any way," Boudreaux said.

Mississippi Air National Guard first with C-141B jet transport

JACKSON — The Mississippi Air National Guard entered the jet transport era here on July 12 when the first of eight C-141B Starlifter aircraft arrived to officially be accepted by the 172nd Military Airlift Group, replacing the unit's C-130 Hercules.

Mississippi was the first state in the National Guard to receive the C-141B and celebrated with an open house and appropriate ceremonies.

The aircraft acceptance and dedication ceremony began at 2 p.m. and featured the arrival of the first C-141B and remarks by Governor William Allain; General Duane H. Cassidy, commander of Military Airlift Command; Senator John C. Stennis; Senator Tad Cochran; Rep. G. V. Montgomery; Lt. Gen. Emmett H. Walker, chief, National Guard Bureau; Maj. Gen. John Conaway, director, Air National Guard; Maj. Gen. Nat G. Troutt, the adjutant general of Mississippi; Brig. Gen. Wayne O. Burkes, chief of staff, Mississippi Air National Guard and Col. James Chapman, commander, 172nd Military Airlift Group.

Acquisition of the C-141B Starlifters by the Jackson based ANG unit increases the economic impact on the area. Some $30 million in construction is either in progress or scheduled at the base to accommodate the jet transports. The strength of the unit also is increased from some 800 to 1200 Guard members.

The 172nd MAG was organized in 1953 at Hawkins Field in Jackson as the 183rd Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron with Major Thomas F. Brown as the commander of 15 officers and 87 airmen. They flew World War II model T-6 trainers, then converted to B-26 aircraft.

In June 1958, the mission was changed from night photo reconnaissance to aeromedical evacuation and the unit aircraft was changed to C-119 Flying Boxcars. In June 1962, these carriers were replaced with C-121 Super Constellations and the 172nd was assigned a world-wide mission.

After moving to new facilities at Thompson Field (Charles L. Sullivan Air National Guard Base) in 1963, the unit became the 172nd Air Transport Group (heavy) and in 1967 C-124 Globemasters replaced the Constellations.

The world-wide mission increased as Guardsmen from Mississippi flew to all parts of the globe including Europe and Southeast Asia.

The 172nd flew the 1000th National Guard cargo mission to Vietnam in support of U.S. forces in the Southeast.

In 1971, the 172nd became the first ANG Group to get C-130E model Hercules and in 1973 the unit opened its enlistments to women other than nurses. The 172nd received eight brand new C-130H model Hercules right off the assembly line from Lockheed in 1980 to replace the C-130E models.

Among its many accomplishments are its safety record of flying over 30 years without a major aircraft accident and receiving the U.S. Air Force and Air National Guard Outstanding Unit Awards.

The total civilian and military payroll annually for the Air Guard in Jackson exceeds $11-million.

Martin Marietta names 'Employee of The Year'

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Martin Marietta Michoud Aerospace has named Eugene H. O'Brien employee of the year.

O'Brien is a senior buyer who joined Martin Marietta in 1979. He administers contracts with suppliers who manufacture components for the giant Space Shuttle external propellant tanks Martin Marietta builds in New Orleans.

O'Brien managed a system which enabled Martin Marietta to cut the cost of these external tank components by fourteen percent, including a $26,000 per tank reduction in the cost of feedlines.

He also recommended changing the material from which another component is made, reducing costs by an additional $15,000 per tank.

O'Brien was chosen from among the company's 4,300 employees.

The six major components he is responsible to purchase include liquid oxygen feed lines, oxygen and hydrogen filter screens, bearings, shock mounts, manifold assemblies, and filter and check valve assemblies.

O'Brien is a native of New Orleans who has attended Tulane, Southeastern, and Western Kentucky universities. He and his wife, Jacquelyn, have two children.

Martin Marietta manufactures the giant Space Shuttle external tanks at NASA's Michoud Assembly Facility in eastern New Orleans under contract to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala.

Unwritten rules regulated depression barter system

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article resulted from the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association.

Getting off on the Right Foot

By Mary Ann Dasey, PhD
Department of English
Mississippi State University

In the 1890's, the Great Depression years, the barter system was a way of life in Mississippi.

My father was an attorney and in pecking order the last to be paid hard cash. Therefore most of his fees were paid by other services or surplus farm products.

Regularly milk, corn, a cord of firewood, butter, pecans, peaches, watermelons, tomatoes would arrive at the back door, delivered as payment for services rendered.

The hunting dogs, from their backyard pen, would alert the cook to the delivery. She would summon my mother to the kitchen, where the produce would be unloaded onto counter tops, tables, chairs, and the floor.

As boxes and sacks were emptied, mother would admire the quality of each offering—its size, color, firmness. The farmer or his wife would offer comments about the hens that laid the eggs, the cow who produced the milk, the land that yielded the corn.

Next, my mother offered refreshments—iced tea and whatever had been baked that day. It was always refused.

Inquiries about the health and welfare of both families were exchanged; the weather came next—too much rain to too little, fiercely hot or biting cold. No one sat; all the chairs would be filled with food.

Good-byes began in the kitchen and continued on the back porch and out into the yard.

In transactions with connections, the script was somewhat different. Connections were entertained in the parlor, hugs and kisses were exchanged, and the iced tea was accepted.

No records of any of these "deliveries" were kept. Mother would tell my father that someone had brought some peaches or that the corn we were eating was delivered that day.

No one was expected to give away what he couldn't spare, and no one was suspected of not trying to pay.

The exchanges of services were also affairs of honor. Dr. Billie tended to our medical needs; in exchange my father collected for him and kept his books.

One carpenter client built us a playhouse with real windows that went up and down. No offer of service was ever refused and none was ever requested.

The repayment service was rendered at the convenience of the client. It was he who chose both the task and the time. If a workman could labor for cash, it was understood that our house could wait.

I was directly involved in one of these service exchanges.

Miss Leota Mae provided me with free tap lessons in exchange for a divorce. And for me, our meeting was love at first sight.

Her little black satin shorts and black net stockings that ran all the way to her underpants (or farther I suspected) dazzled my five-year-old eyes. Her Evening in Paris smell still lingers in my memory.

No student of tap dance ever tried so hard to learn as I did, nor did any teacher ever try any harder than Miss Leota Mae to teach the skill; but all of this energy was expended in vain. I just couldn't get off on the right foot.

"Honey Bun," she'd coo, "let's put my bracelet on your little right arm."

Carried away with the honor of wearing something of hers, I would forget which arm it graced. In spite of all of her efforts and best intentions, Miss Leota Mae is the reason that I have been a life-long directional cripple. I turn left when someone says turn right.

I might have recovered from Miss Leota Mae's loving, but misguided instructions had she not kept marrying the wrong men and exchanging more divorces for additional free tap dance lessons.

And when she finally remarried one of her ex-husbands, a rum-runner, and moved to Biloxi to be nearer his work, not only was I heart broken but our family also lost a source of cash income.

For Miss Leota Mae's rum-runner husband was one of my father's steady cash clients (along with his bootlegger customers and a man who ran a stateline tavern).

Whiskey, you see, was not available on a barter basis. For it, you paid "cash on the barrel."

In fact, only once during all those years did any of this group of clients ever fail to pay my father in cash. On that occasion we acquired a pair of matching dueling pistols and mother got an ancient touring car, complete with folding running boards and driver's window.

Gradually recovery came. And with defense plants, manpower shortages and rationing, the exchanges and deliveries finally stopped altogether.

I came of age during the war and reared my own child in an economy in which the old barter system was just a childhood memory.

I still remember the taste of farm fresh eggs, corn straight from the field, buttermilk almost too thick to drink, dresses that smelled ever so faintly of homemade starch, tap dancing to "Playmates" and "On the Good Ship Lollypop," the excitement of buying new shoes, but, most of all, taking delivery of the debts of honor.

FRANK W. NIEMEIER JR., left, named Farmers Home Administration supervisor for Hancock County, is congratulated on the appointment by Doyle D. Haden, district director. He replaces Jackie D. Williams who is now county supervisor for Pearl River County. The local appointment was made by John Arthur, state director of FmHA, headquartered in Jackson. The new supervisor is a graduate of Mississippi State and has 15 years experience with FmHA. The Farmers Home Administration makes loans to farmers and rural families. The agency also finances community facilities and makes business and industrial loans. However, the latter two types of loan are usually handled by personnel at a district or state office. The county office has information about all programs and will accept applications, but mainly handles loans with individual farmers and rural families.

Biloxi Garden Clubs Council schedules Twilight Time jazz event

Bill Westfall's Jazz Combo of the Gulf Coast Jazz Society headlines Sunday, July 20, at the Old Brick House in the fifth series Twilight Time Concerts, a production of the Biloxi Council of Garden Clubs to share a bit of Biloxi heritage with newcomers and local residents, as well as Biloxi visitors.

The Biloxi Council, which was organized especially to preserve the Old Brick House (also known as the Jean Baptiste Carquette house), also opens many beautiful community gardens and bits of heritage as well as horticultural beauty to the public through the Spring Pilgrimage.

Both the Twilight Time Concerts and the Spring Pilgrimage are free, and during the Twilight Concerts, there is no charge for the tour of the stately but friendly old home of one of Biloxi's earliest mayors. Hostesses for the July occasion are members of the Sunkist Garden Club.

Jazz musicians featured in July's Twilight Time reads like their Hall of Fame...you will hear Al Arguelles, clarinet; Charlie Blackwood on drums; Dick Fortner, guitarist; Jerry Hurlbert, bass; Dick Fortner, guitarist; Clark Shaughnessy at the keyboard and perhaps one of the society's greatest trumpeters.

Westfall completes the group on tenor sax.

In true Dixieland style, the musicians may vary from time to time, and all of the Twilight Timers are appearing as a special community activity, and without pay.

Musicians, gardeners, history buffs and audience, it is a time for pure enjoyment under a summer evening sky.

Nina Schwartzman, concert producer, reminds everyone to bring their own seating, whether it be lawn chair or beach blanket, and prepare for a time of sharing with the whole family, best friends, new acquaintances.

The crowd begins to gather about 6 p.m. to choose their favorite spot in the gardens by the bay or to take an early turn through the beloved old house, which is located at 410 East Bayview, and whose stately old friend-homes have moved away from the Seafood Trail to more modern lifestyles.

The audience enjoys a very "laid-back" concert as they are free to move around, buy a soft drink from the Garden Clubbers, or stroll down the bay as they show their children a shrimp boat at close range.

Thanks are given to Mr. David Sykes of the Mosquito Control who tries always to see that you are not disturbed by these summer pests, and to the City of Biloxi for its various and many aids to the Old Brick House.

Thanks, too, to those high-stepping Second-Liners who visually orchestrate that sparkling jazz...you might even get to join them!

Bay High receives $7,675 grant

BY DENA BISNETTE
The science department of Bay Senior High School has received a $7,675 grant from the Mississippi Power Foundation.
The grant award was presented Friday to teacher Evelyn Timidaiki by Lucimarian Roberts, a member of the Mississippi Power Foundation board of directors and the State Board of Education.
Timidaiki said the grant would be used to purchase computers, printers and software for use by the school's marine biology class as well as a science library.
The initial award consists of 90 percent of the grant funds. The remainder of the money will be turned over to the school after completion of a one-year program using the computer equipment, Timidaiki said.
The effectiveness of the program will be measured through a comparison of students who have used the equipment and those who have not used the computers or science library.
The marine biology class has been offered at Bay High for about three years and is limited to honor students who have completed biology and chemistry courses.

Although the class is limited, about 20 to 35 students usually register.
The students have about 10 aquariums in the classroom that they maintain themselves, Timidaiki said. They obtain and care for specimens as one of their class projects.
Other projects include research and formal papers.
Resources for the class are limited. While they are permitted some field trips to the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center in Ocean Springs, most of the time they must manage with resources available at Bay High, she added.
The grant will provide them with up-to-date science information in addition to bolstering computer literacy, Principal Frank Ladner said.
"Cutbacks in federal, state and local funding have hampered our buying equipment for our laboratories," Ladner said.

"With the aid of a modern science study center our students stand a better chance of learning the basics and being able to compete with students from areas where funding has not stood in the way of education," he added.
Roberts also stressed the importance of having as many resources available to students as possible.
"I have travelled as military wives will do, and the first thought we have always had is what the schools will be like. If the school is not at its very best it cripples children for life," she said.
"Mrs. Timidaiki, I am grateful to you and so happy you are receiving our first grant because we believe your computers and media will not just be equipment but will be used for the children," Roberts said during the presentation.
The Mississippi Power Foundation is a nonprofit corporation formed by Mississippi Power Company to provide educational grants.
According to Roberts, it is the only foundation that has been formed by an investor-owned utility in Mississippi.

Bay planners approve zoning change request

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission approved a zoning change to reduce the required lot size on a parcel of land off Easterbrook Street.
The zoning change from R-1 to R-1B will reduce the lot size requirement from 15,000 to 8,500 square feet.
Chari McIntyre Rapp of Waveland requested the change so the parcel could be divided and sold for the construction of Farmers Home Administration houses.
Several area residents attended the meeting to protest the change which they believe will depreciate the value of property in the area.
"We have worked too hard to build our homes out there to see those little dinky houses be allowed in the neighborhood," Mrs. L. L. Ward said.
Other area residents echoed her sentiments that the smaller sized lots could only hold small houses or "shacks."

Following the discussion Commissioner Bill Tate said in view of problems with the availability of land space in Bay St. Louis he could not personally deny the request.
Tate went on to make the motion for approval and the board approved the change. Voting in favor of the zoning change were Commissioners Calvin Smith, Gordon Boh, Alice Holmes, Augustus Scaffidi and Clarence Ladner.
Joe Marochino opposed the change.
Also at the meeting a request for a single-use permit was tabled until further information could be obtained.
Edgar Joseph Casanova and Victoria Ann Casanova requested the permit to operate a fence company at 532 Demontuzin.

ROAD CLOSING DELAYED
A planned closing of LaFrance Road in Ansley for bridge replacement work has been indefinitely delayed.
According to Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge, the road was originally expected to be closed while a drainage structure known as Claiborne High Rise was replaced with a bridge. The work has been postponed because the county is trying to obtain a temporary bridge from the US Navy Construction Battalion.
TURKEY SHOOT
C&R Carnival Club will sponsor a turkey shoot Sunday, Aug. 3, at Irene and Johnny's Bar across US-90 from the BaySide Park subdivision entrance.
The event begins at 1 p.m. Free barbecue will be available.

Attorney general opinion forbids

BY DENA BISNETTE
An opinion from an assistant state attorney general says that a building code must apply to the entire county and not just part of it.
According to John Scaffidi Jr., attorney for the Hancock County Planning Commission, the July 10 opinion renders a piecemeal building code illegal.
Scaffidi presented the opinion, signed by Special Assistant Attorney General Samuel W. Keyes Jr., to the board of supervisors Wednesday.
The supervisors had requested the opinion after obtaining a local and private bill requesting a referendum on a building code.
The board had proposed a building code for only the section of the county below Interstate-10, with Board President A.A. Kellar stating that a building code would fail to pass in the area above I-10.
The opinion applies both to building codes and planning and zoning ordinances.
State law allows the county to enact either an overall comprehensive planning and zoning ordinance or a building code or both, but both must apply to the entire unincorporated area of the county, Scaffidi said.

Financing must be provided through the county general fund for either the zoning ordinance or the building code.
Keyes also provided a copy of a prior opinion provided to State Representative Tommy Horne in 1980, which held that amendments to the zoning ordinance as well as the ordinance itself must be countywide.
Keyes stated, "In summary, the primary objection to zoning and or building ordinances which apply only to parts of the unincorporated parts of the county lies in its discriminatory effect in singling out for regulation a small area and imposing upon property owners therein restrictions not applicable to other areas."
"When considered in the context of the enabling legislation, such 'piece-meal' application would, in the opinion of this office, be discriminatory and a denial of equal protection."
The letter also stated that Keyes' opinion overrules any prior opinions.
In other business Wednesday, the board:
—Accepted for filing budgets from the Hancock County School District and Hancock County Sheriff's Department;

—Approved an extension on deadline on submission of property tax rolls to the board of supervisors;
—Approved a right-of-way across Rotten Bayou Cemetery for a Coast Electric Power Association utility line;
—Requested an attorney general opinion regarding new legislation on fire protection district taxes;
—Authorized a request for assistance from the US Navy Construction Battalion for temporary replacement of a bridge on LaFrance Road in Ansley;
—Approved notifying members of Mississippi's Senate, delegation of the need to support continuation of revenue sharing;
—Approved a resolution supporting Greene County's attempts to obtain a satellite prison;
—Approved bids on replacement of a bridge on Texas Flat Road in Beat Two, work on a water well and pump system at Leetown and resurfacing of First Avenue and Coral Street in Shoreline Park; and —Agreed to visit Harrison County to look at its beach maintenance program and equipment.
The board meets again July 30 on the second floor of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Bay school board appoints committee to study Policy 18

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board has appointed a committee to study Board Policy 18 which requires anyone wishing to address the board to make prior arrangements to be placed on a meeting agenda.
The committee members were named by Board President Betty Diboll Monday and include Lana Noonan of Bay-Waveland Parents for Quality Education; former teacher Peggy Dutton; teachers Jill Williams and Joan Thomas; North Bay Elementary School Principal Roger James and Bay Senior High School Principal Frank Ladner.
Diboll specifically stated that the committee should include no board members.
The committee has been assigned to study Policy 18 and make recommendations to the board regarding possible changes.
Policy 18 was repeatedly invoked by the board during the recent controversy over kindergarten classrooms.
Diboll stated at the time that the policy was merely being used "to maintain order," but some speakers at meetings at which the policy has been invoked have criticized it as being too restrictive.
The disputed section of the policy states, "No individual will be placed on the agenda after 12 o'clock noon of the Thursday immediately prior to the board's monthly meeting."
"In the event of a special meeting with more than 24 hours' notice, the individual shall file at the superintendent's office his request to be placed on the agenda by 4 o'clock p.m. on the day preceding the special meeting."

"In the case of special meetings with less than 24 hours' notice, a request to be placed on the agenda will be acted upon immediately by the superintendent; and if the individual is not satisfied with the superintendent's decision, the individual shall automatically be placed on the board agenda at that special meeting."
The policy defines a special meeting with less than 24 hours' notice as being an emergency meeting.
Policy 18 also limits speakers to 10 minutes each, not counting any time used by board members to answer questions. The policy explains that all comments must be addressed to the board as a whole and not to individual board members or spectators.
The policy also contains a provision that allows anyone using "vulgar, obscene, insulting or threatening language" to be ejected from the meeting.
In addition, Policy 18 states that the board will allow representatives of teacher, parent or citizen organizations to be placed on the agenda as well as individuals.
The remainder of the policy, which has not been publicly questioned during the kindergarten classroom controversy, deals with grievances or complaints against the schools or the district and notification of the local press with regard to meetings.

In other business Monday, the board:
—Took under advisement bids for a copier for the Bay Junior High band hall and uniforms for the Bay Senior High band;
—Approved bids for maintenance of school buses and service trucks;
—Approved payment of $500 in annual dues to the Southern Education Consortium;
—Approved payment of $941 in annual dues to Mississippi School Boards Association;
—Approved an annual agreement with the Hancock County School District for a vocational program for disadvantaged students;
—Approved resignations of Billy R. Power, Bay Junior High industrial arts teacher; and Marietta Murray, a North Bay Elementary teacher;
—Approved hiring six additional teachers for the 1986-87 school year;
The board's next meeting is expected to be a special called meeting to discuss an interim classroom facility for kindergarten and the 1986-87 budget.
Superintendent of Education Roger Oge said he has visited St. Rose de Lima School with other administrators and building inspectors and said the building appears to be a suitable interim facility.
He said he expects to have a detailed report available for the next meeting.

Bayou Cadet marina delayed

BY DENA BISNETTE
Dissatisfaction with a proposed site has again delayed attempts to obtain funding for a proposed marina at Bayou Cadet.
According to Jeff Taylor of South Mississippi Planning and Development District, representatives of Bureau of Marine Resources have determined that the proposed location is unsuitable because it is at the end of a dead-end canal.
The supervisors had proposed the site because it is more protected than three other areas eyed for the project.
One of the others is located inside the bayou itself, while the other two would require pilings so long construction would not be cost-effective.

Taylor told the board Wednesday that in a discussion of the project with Bureau Representative Gordon Larsen, he was told that building boatslips and other facilities at the end of a dead-end canal would result in poor water quality and difficulties with wetlands mitigations.
About 13 acres of working wetlands would be destroyed during construction and the county would have to purchase an equal amount of are in front of Bayou Cadet. One of the sites in front of the bayou has already been ruled out because a bureau study found that the soil type land for reclamation.

Typically, the bureau requires reclamation land to be near or adjacent to the construction site.
Taylor said he plans to look at all four sites again and provide the board with cost estimates on all four.
he plans to submit one of the sites, which is located in front of the bayou in an area filled by spoil from previous dredging, to the bureau for further consideration.

Alexander said the selection is subject to the formal ratification of the PRC Board of Trustees at their regular July meeting. Dr. Alexander said he has verbal approval from the majority of the 16 board members which govern the junior college. Lott will succeed Enoch Seal Jr., who retired June 30 after 35 years of service to Pearl River College.

NEW FISHING LIMITS

Mississippi fishermen in the northern and eastern counties will soon be facing new restrictions on certain state waters.

Beginning August 18, 1986 and extending through Sept. 1, 1988, anglers on Grenada Reservoir must return to the water any black bass measuring less than 15 inches long.

Bass over this limit may be kept but may not exceed the legal limit of 10 per day.

State fisheries chief Ron Garavelli said that the black bass on Grenada will extend for two years, through September 1988.

Cross said that during this time the bass population will be examined closely to measure the success of the slot limit.

In addition, local conservation officers will be watching the fishery closely to insure angler compliance with the regulations.

Experience with slot length limits imposed in the past on Ross Barnett Reservoir north of Jackson and at state fishing lakes, has generally reflected good cooperation by the fishing public.

BWYC hosts area championship

The Bay of St. Louis was the scene of some very intense competition when the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club held the U.S. Yacht Racing Union Area D Junior Sailing Championships last weekend.

The event is sailed in three categories: Sears, triple-handed, in Flying Scots; Bemis, double-handed, in Laser II's, and Smythe, single-handed, in Lasers. All participants are between the ages of 13 and 17.

A fine display of excellent sailing was given by the local team of Page Murphy, skipper, and her crew Missy Breath and Chip Peterson, who finished a close second to Andy Lovell of Southern Yacht Club in the Sears Fleet.

Lovell and his crew of Rosalind Meade and Barton Jahncke will represent the Gulf Yachting Association and Area D in the Sears Finals to be held at BWYC August 10-15.

Finishing third in the Sears was Polk Wagner and his crew Zack Wagner and Trey Gilham of the Yacht Club of Hilton Head Island. In fourth place was Chad Shakespeare of St. Petersburg Yacht Club, fifth was Darren Chambers of Lake Lanier Sailing Club; sixth, Mindy Ross, Lake Norman Yacht Club.

Michael Demarcay and crew, Sid Charbonnet of Southern Yacht Club sailed a nearly perfect series in the Bemis, but due to a disqualification in one race, were unable to advance to the finals.

The winner of the Bemis was David Mendelblatt and crew George Frush of St. Petersburg Yacht Club. In second place was Demarcay; third, Michael James with crew Larry Demarcay of Southern Yacht Club; fourth, Scott Barden of Carolina Yacht Club; fifth, Robb Ostrom, Lake Lanier Sailing Club; sixth, Chris Dillow, Lake Norman Yacht Club.

The Smythe event was completely dominated by Alex Ascencios, representing Sarasota Sailing Squadron, who won all six races in the single-handed division.

Finishing second in the Smythe was Vance Thompson of Mobile Yacht Club; third was Will Martin, Carolina Yacht Club; fourth, Tom Duffy, Bay-Waveland Yacht Club; fifth, Michael Hartman, Atlanta Yacht Club; sixth, Jay Smith, Carolina Yacht Club.

Regatta Chairman for the Junior Championships was Harry Chapman. Serving as Race Chairman was Bishop Stieffel with an entire committee of Junior members.

Because these U.S. Championship events are sailed in borrowed boats, a Ship Shape Award is presented at the end of the series to the skipper and crew in each division who exercised the best care of boats and equipment. These awards were won by Darren Chambers in the Sears, Chris Dillow in the Bemis, and Alex Ascencios in the Smythe.

Bassin' with the Pros

FISHING PATTERNS

Take a good look at your own daily schedule. After I wake up I hit the shower, shave, get dressed, watch the morning news while my son Regan tries to coax me out to play baseball or basketball.

After a half hour passes, Mary relieves me of my fatherly responsibility so that I can catch my java and toast at the local cafe while hearing about the six-pounder someone caught the previous night. Then it's off to work.

Believe it or not, bass have daily patterns just like you and me. Bass are creatures of habit and heredity and can be counted upon to do predictable things under certain circumstances. It's precisely their day-in-day-out habits that key anglers in to what has come to be called "pattern fishing."

According to Randy Fite, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member, pattern fishing gets "programmed into your mind and the more time you spend on the water, the more reflex responses you have to these things."

"For example, someone who's been fishing any length of time may start off with a topwater bait early in the morning and he's catching fish and sees that fishing is starting to slow down. He realizes that the sun is getting brighter and the bass are getting bolder underneath the grassline or whatever. This is when he'd make an adjustment by going to a plastic worm or something else that's going to get below the surface. Bass react to sunlight. These variables become secondhand to you in the sense that you will make these adjustments as conditions change."

On any large body of water, you will generally have multiple patterns. To be successful in your search for bass, you'll have to understand and locate at least two or three existing patterns.

"If conditions change, as they often do," Fite emphasizes, "sometimes there's a pattern that is less affected by that change than by what another pattern might be. A good example would be a body of water with shallow water fish and deep water fish.

Let's say it's been cloudy for two days and you've been catching fish out in the shallow water. All of a sudden, the sun pops out. Shallow water bass are harder to catch under bright sunlight intensity.

So, you'd fall back on your secondary pattern, which would be the deep water bass because they are not really affected by that sunlight because light intensity is very, very low at that depth anyway."

Sunlight penetration and water temperature will determine what your lure selection will be. The water temperature will also determine what your retrieval speed will be—the colder the water, the slower the speed.

"For example," Fite illustrates, "if you have a tree laying down in the water and the water is shallow and the tree is laying there under bright sunlight conditions (that is, when the sun is not at its peak, between 9-11 a.m. and 4-7 p.m.) you should fish the outer edge of the tree with a fast moving bait. The bass will tend to be aggressive and therefore, will come from the outside edge of the tree and chase anything that comes by."

"Take that same tree under the same conditions except that there is high sunlight intensity (that is, when the sun is at its peak, between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.) on that tree."

Now that bass will tend to back up and get into the heaviest section of that tree. Under this light condition, he's not going to come charging out of that tree to chase anything.

He's in more of a dormant state and, therefore, your lure selection will either have to be a worm or jig, something you can get right into the heaviest brush or heaviest part of that tree and present right to that fish.

"In warmer water conditions, you want to work your baits more in a horizontal motion," Fite continues.

Where are bass generally located during the summer? Fite answers that "fish tend to relate to types of sloping contours and gradual dropoffs. This is because the summer weather changes aren't as severe as they are in the winter and fish relate to the gradual depth changes because they don't have to make any sudden movements one way or the other due to these weather changes."

In summation, Fite stresses that frequently when a lot of people catch fish, they don't try to look at all the reasons of why the bass was where it was caught. "If they'd understand why that bass was there, then they would better understand the pattern that's going on in the lake at that given time."

Check your pressure—technicians at Outboard Marine Corporation recommend a water pressure gauge for all outboard motors, especially bass boats operated in shallow water. A water pressure gauge will warn you of a water pickup clogged with weeds or mud faster than a temperature gauge to help prevent engine overheating.

Have a question you'd like a bass pro to answer? Jot it down and mail it to "Bassin' with the Pros" at this newspaper. Answers to your questions will appear in a future column.

Pro rodeo coming to Biloxi

Rodeo clowns - some of the best in business - are coming to Biloxi Aug. 1, 2 and 3 for the first annual Budweiser SuperPro Rodeo at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

Rodeo clowns aren't like circus clowns who make audiences laugh at their crazy outfits, grease paint and outrageous antics.

"Yes, rodeo clowns do all this, but their major mission is looking out for cowboys during the rodeo," said Matt Dryden, of Circle D. Rodeo Co. of Marianna, Fla., producer of the rodeo.

"Sometimes a rodeo clown is the only way out when a mean buckin' horse or a ferocious bull throws a cowboy," said Dryden.

"He's there to make sure the cowboy doesn't get hurt. The clowns in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association are the best in the business," he said, "and we're excited to have the top ones here."

Coming to Biloxi will be: —Rick Young, the self-styled "Rajun Cajun" from Tickfaw, La., a former national Pro Rodeo Clown of the Year. Young is a bull fighter and was on the Wrangler bull-fighting circuit for several years.

—Steven Dryden, of Marianna will be the second bull fighting clown. As one of the youngest clowns in the PRCA, he has earned a reputation all over the country for his heroics in the arena.

—Leland (Shorty) Hayes will be the barrel clown. A native of Byron, Ga., he's been chosen to work the prestigious PRCA Southeastern Finals for the past several years.

The rodeo's first performance will be Friday, Aug. 1 at 8 p.m. with the second performance Saturday Aug.

2 at 8 p.m. and the final performance Sunday, Aug. 3 at 2 p.m.

The rodeo is sanctioned by the PRCA and the Women's Professional Rodeo Association for world championship points and money.

Tickets for the rodeo are on sale at the Coliseum box office, and Select-A-Seat outlets throughout south Mississippi, south Louisiana and south Alabama for $9 and $7.50.

Tickets for children 12 and under are $7 and $5.50 for Saturday and Sunday performances.

School attendance officers report successful year

Last year, the coordinator for the homebound program in one county contacted the county's school attendance officer regarding a child who had not returned to school after being diagnosed as epileptic.

The homebound - coordinator believed she was not receiving cooperation from the parent.

When the attendance officer and homebound program coordinator visited the home, the child was lethargic, and intellectual responses were quite slow.

The mother said she reduced the child's medicine dosage because she had difficulty waking her.

However, if the child complained of headaches the mother gave her additional medicine.

The mother stated she had rescheduled the child's doctor appointment for the next week.

The attendance officer and homebound coordinator talked the mother into taking the child to the doctor that day. They provided transportation.

The doctor found the child to be phenobarbital toxic. The attendance officer, school nurse and homebound coordinator, as well as the doctor, worked with this family.

The child returned to school three days after the initial visit and has not been absent since. In this case, the intervention of the school attendance officer and school personnel not only remedied the attendance problem, but also may have prevented a life-threatening situation to this child.

The list of problems and solutions goes on and on, but one thing is for sure; Mississippi school attendance officers were successful at helping keep Mississippi children in school last year.

Under the Mississippi Compulsory School Attendance Law, enrollment of compulsory age children continues to increase each school year.

During the 1985-86 school year, enrollment in the first four grades was up 2,928, according to figures from the State Department of Education.

"Each year since the 1983-84 school year when the law went into effect, enrollment has increased," said Alfrene Johnson, special projects officer with the Commission for Children and Youth (CCY), Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs.

"Last year, for example, 1,401 more 6-, 7- and 8-year olds attended the first, second and third grades than did the previous school year.

This indicates that enrollment of compulsory aged children is up, but because of a lack of data on the number of educable Mississippi children in these age ranges, it is impossible to attribute the increase solely to the law."

Monthly reports to the commission office from the 98 attendance officers around the state reveal some interesting facts:

-attendance officers are counseling an increasing number of non-compulsory age students, usually at the request of parents and school officials;

-90 percent of cases of non-enrollment are resolved through home visits by attendance officers; and -the number of students in home instruction programs has increased from 69 to 209 during the 1985-86 school year.

The reports also revealed that more parents are being taken to court because of non-compliance with the law. During the 1985-86 school year, 140 petitions were filed, with 86 having been adjudicated.

The remainder await judges' decisions. During the previous year, approximately 100 petitions were filed.

Of the 542 children who were reported not enrolled, contact was made in all cases, and 540 were enrolled after contact. Attendance officers made 10,300 home/school visits, made 8,763 phone calls and wrote 4,644 letters.

School attendance officers in 49 counties reported each month, 15 skipped one report, eight missed two reports, six missed three or more reports and attendance officers in four counties made one or no report the entire year.

Major reasons for non-attendance cited in the reports, according to Ms. Johnson, are illnesses and other medical problems; student's lack of school supplies or clothing; lack of birth certificates; apathy on part of parent; school officials failure to report absences; and transportation problems.

Many parents also keep children at home to babysit younger children or sick relatives or because of other family problems she added.

The compulsory attendance law will cover children ages 6-10 this fall and will add one year of age each school year until all children 6-14 are required to attend school.

"We believe parents want good things for their children, with education being one of those things," Ms. Johnson said.

SENSITIVE PARENTING

Body Image, Peers Influence Teen's Esteem

By Norine Barnes
Child and Family Development Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

The basic self-concept is largely in place by adolescence. However, there are two major influences on adolescent self-esteem: body image and peer perception.

In our society, physical attractiveness has a strong bearing on self-esteem throughout life but teenagers are especially sensitive about any difference from the norm. At some time, nearly every adolescent is bothered by feelings that he is different from everyone else and that no one else is changing in the same way at the same time.

Most teenagers consider themselves to be unacceptable for reasons including height, weight, skin color, eye sight, facial features and early or late maturation. In fact, the list is almost endless.

Equally as important as body image to the adolescent is peer influence. As a teenager, what one's peers think strongly influences one's self-esteem. Unfortunately, peer influence is at its height at the same time teenagers are feeling socially, physically and intellectually inept.

During these years, parents must be particularly aware of these doubts and help their teens develop compensating talents and abilities. "There is nothing more risky than sending a teenager into the storms of adolescence with no skills, no unique knowledge, no means of compensating." (Dobson) The lucky ones can point to something special: "I may not be the most popular kid but I'm a good flag girl in the school band."

For the last four weeks, this column has been about the development of a healthy self-concept. Let me summarize this complex subject in a paragraph.

In infancy, parents have total care for the child. If the relationship is warm and the care adequate, trust develops in the infant. This sets the stage for the next step, the growth of competency and power in the child.

If encouraged and nurtured, the child assumes more and more responsibility for his own care. The parents' role is to model affectionate, open and assertive behavior, teach appropriate skills, discipline consistently and gradually turn responsibility for his care over to the child. This needs to be a continual process that will be largely accomplished by the late teens.

The child internalizes his mastery of life experiences and the approval of "significant others" as a positive self-concept.

Donald Butler
Director
Bureau of Narcotics

Q. Is it true that marijuana is stronger and more harmful than it used to be?

(J.C., Ellenville)

A. Marijuana today is ten to 15 times stronger than that of the 60's. In 1975 marijuana street samples content rarely exceeded one percent THC (tetrahydrocannabinol); the chemical in marijuana that produces the "high", today however, the average potency contains 5 percent to seven percent THC.

Therefore the strength to today's marijuana is much greater than that of the early 1970's.

Other factors that play a role in determining the strength of marijuana are the weather, the type of plant, the soil, and the time of harvest.

These are qualities necessary to grow high grade, profitable marijuana. This more potent marijuana is more harmful in that it increases the mental and physical effect on the user.

If you would like to ask a question, address it to: Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics, P.O. Box 6463, Jackson, MS 39212.

UNRECOGNIZED PINCHED NERVES

Pinched nerve is a term utilized by the Chiropractic profession describing an irritation disturbance of a spinal nerve. Falls, auto accidents, lifting wrong, may cause a displacement of a spinal bone, which then can pinch nerves and interrupt normal nerve function. Some of the more common complaints that may develop from pinched nerves are: dizziness, headaches, nervousness, pains in the chest, stomach, neck or back. Often, a person may not associate his condition with pinched nerves thus allowing these conditions to go unrecognized until an advanced state of illness develops. A competent Chiropractic examination will lead to early detection and the application of care will aid prompt recovery.

A little liver goes a long way. If you lose 80 percent of your liver, it could still function, and would eventually restore itself to its original state.

The first suspension bridge was not, as assumed, the Brooklyn Bridge. It was the Schuylkill River Bridge in Philadelphia, designed in 1816 by Erskine Hazard and Josiah White. It had a 30 foot sag and could only support six people at a time. Nevertheless it was a true iron-wire suspension bridge.

The richest street in the world is located in Zurich and is only half a mile long. It's named Railroad Station Street (Bahnhofstrasse). On it you will find some of the famous Swiss banks.

Festival '86 will feature a wide range of seafood—fried fish, oysters, and shrimp, as well as stuffed crabs, seafood dinners and po-boys.

Hot dogs, hamburgers, and drinks will also be available.

"Our craft committee has traveled to craft shows throughout the South in search of quality crafters for this year's festival. These travels will result in approximately 100 exhibitors from over nine states being in this year's select show. A few of the crafts expected include pottery, paintings, stained glass, jewelry, handmade toys and dolls," said Charles Wood, festival spokesman.

Live entertainment will be provided each evening. Friday at 7:30 p.m. Deacon John and the Ivories will be featured.

On Saturday at 7:30 p.m. the band Passport from New Orleans will be the featured entertainers. Passport features non-stop music from the 50's to the 90's. They perform the music of artists such as Elvis, The Beach Boys, and many more favorites.

On Sunday at 5:30 p.m., a popular local attraction, The Juke Jumpers, will provide the live entertainment.

At 3 p.m. on Saturday, a craft and antique auction will begin. In addition to the craft items to be auctioned, antiques from throughout the area will be offered.

"Special fun and games have been arranged for the children as part of Kid's Day. Included in the activities will be face painting, a chance to create something out of wood, painting, special prizes, and much more. The fun will start at noon and run until 5 p.m. on Saturday, July 26."

"Of course it's free," Wood added.

Registration for the 5k and Fun Run will take place at 7:30 a.m. on Saturday, July 26.

hearing is the first of its kind for the Bay St. Louis district. He said neither the state nor the school district requires a hearing prior to official action on the budget. The hearing is part of the superintendent's community involvement program. No action can be taken at a hearing and the board has scheduled a HEARING—Page 3A

We, the Grand Jury for the July, 1986 Term of Court, having been selected, sworn and charged, submit the following Final Report: We were empanelled July 7, 1986. We have considered a total of ninety-two (92) cases of which we returned sixty-two (62) true bills, three (3) no true bills, left two (2) cases pending to be passed to the next Grand

In addition, the Grand Jury toured the Hancock County Sheriff's Office and jail, the Tax Assessor's annex, Bayou Cadet facilities, Stennis Field Airport facilities, and the Port of Bayou La Batre Industrial Park. The Grand Jury recommends that the January, 1987 Grand Jury be furnished copies of this report as their first order of business and that the Grand Jury will make a diligent inquiry to see if the recommendations made in the previous Grand Jury report have been followed.
